An Introduction To The Custom PDF Maker Script

First of all, let me say that working with this script can take quite a bit of getting used to - it's powerful, but quite particular.

However, one very strong benefit I wanted to make part of this script is that it is pretty much completely platform independent.

It runs on your server, and is supported by pretty much all operating systems.

What that means is this -

Unlike some PDF software & scripts that allow you to have brandable PDF's but only work on PC, or if they're server-based (which means they work from the web) they need a strict set up on the server.

For example - a lot of PDF creation scripts need Ghost Script, which is not always already installed and can be a very complicated process to use.

Whereas this script - the Custom PDF Maker script only requires PHP4 (or higher) to be on the server. Nearly all Linux and FreeBSD servers have PHP installed. And some Windows servers too. If you're not sure - ask your web host.

This flexibility does make the script less user friendly than might have otherwise been possible, but once you get used to working with the script you should be able to create great-looking and feature-rich PDF's with it.

A host I use myself that (as I write this) I know supports this script is:

http://www.thirdsphere.com

One strong advantage of this host is they give you 30 days of hosting completely free of charge so you can try them out with no obligation.

If you'll like to take up that offer, you must use the following link to sign up for a hosting account. I can't guarantee how long this free hosting offer will be available:

http://www.thirdsphere.com

Custom PDF Maker Support

As stated in the sales letter, if you want to be comfortable with this script you must have experience working with HTML code, otherwise it could be a steep learning curve.

If you have any questions about this script, since it does come with reprint rights we aren't able to support everyone personally. So if you have a question we've set up a dedicated support area at our forum.

Visit the forum here:

http://www.InfoProfitsTalk.com

Then go to the "Support" forum and the "Custom PDF Maker" area.

How To Install The Custom PDF Maker

This script is very easy to install.

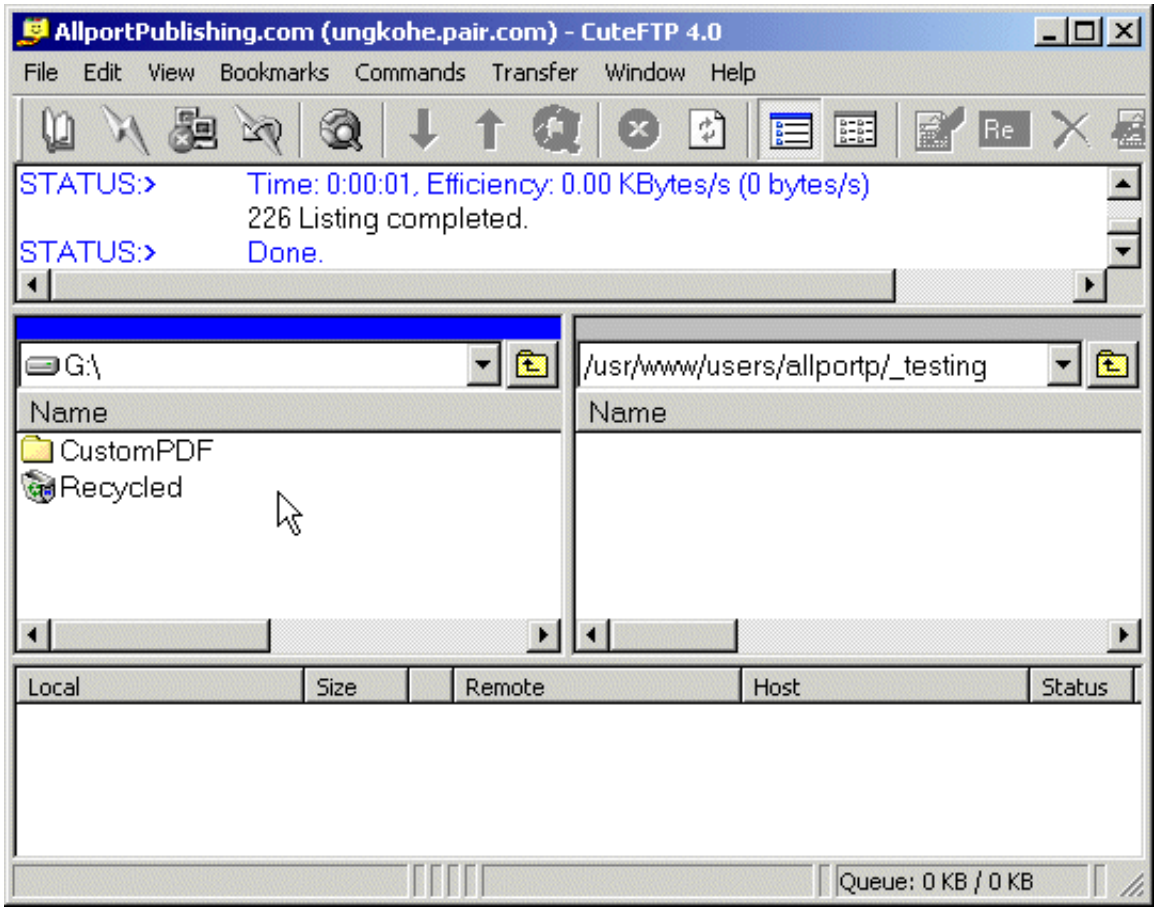
All you need to do is copy the CustomPDF folder from your computer to your server in whichever folder you want the script installed.

I personally use CuteFTP to upload files to my web sites. You can get a demo version of it for free from:

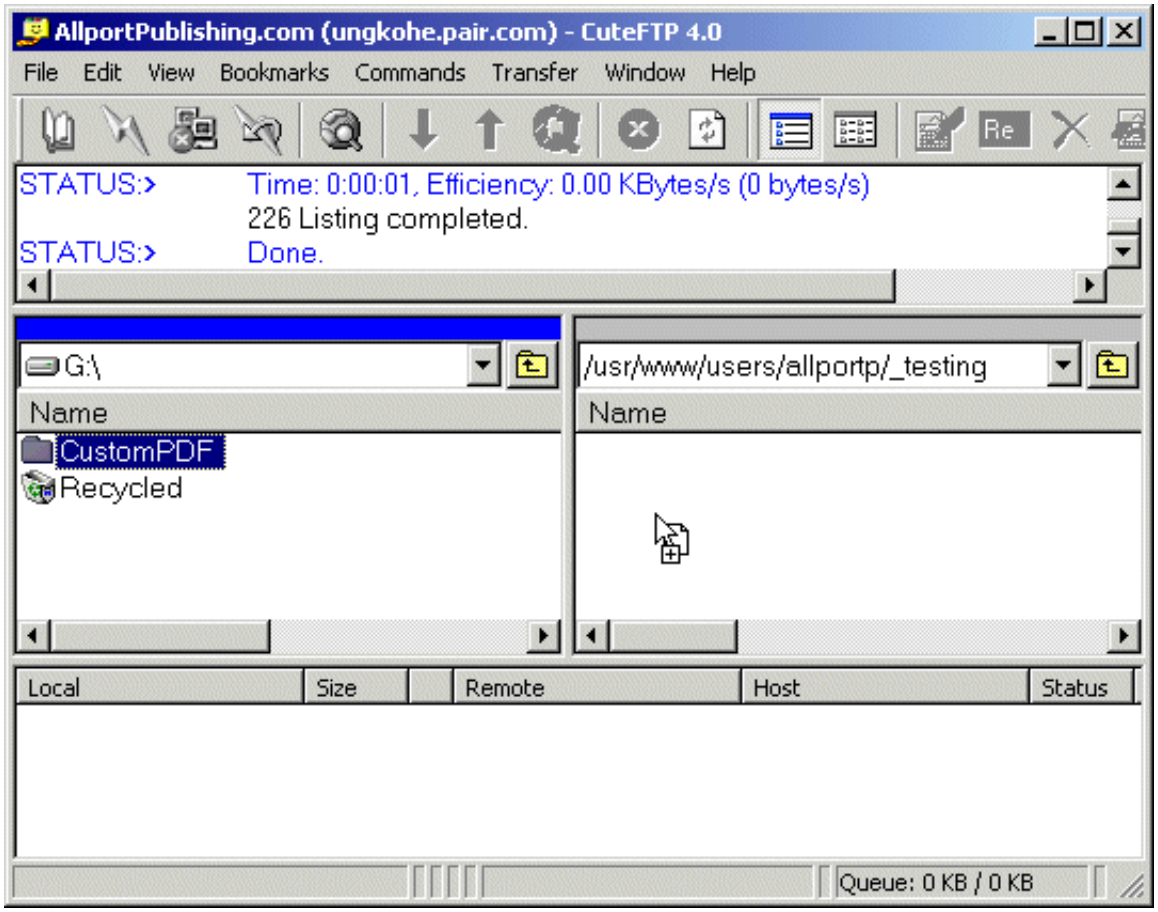
http://www.cuteftp.com

Here are some screen shots of me uploading the files. It really just does take a click, hold, drag, and drop:

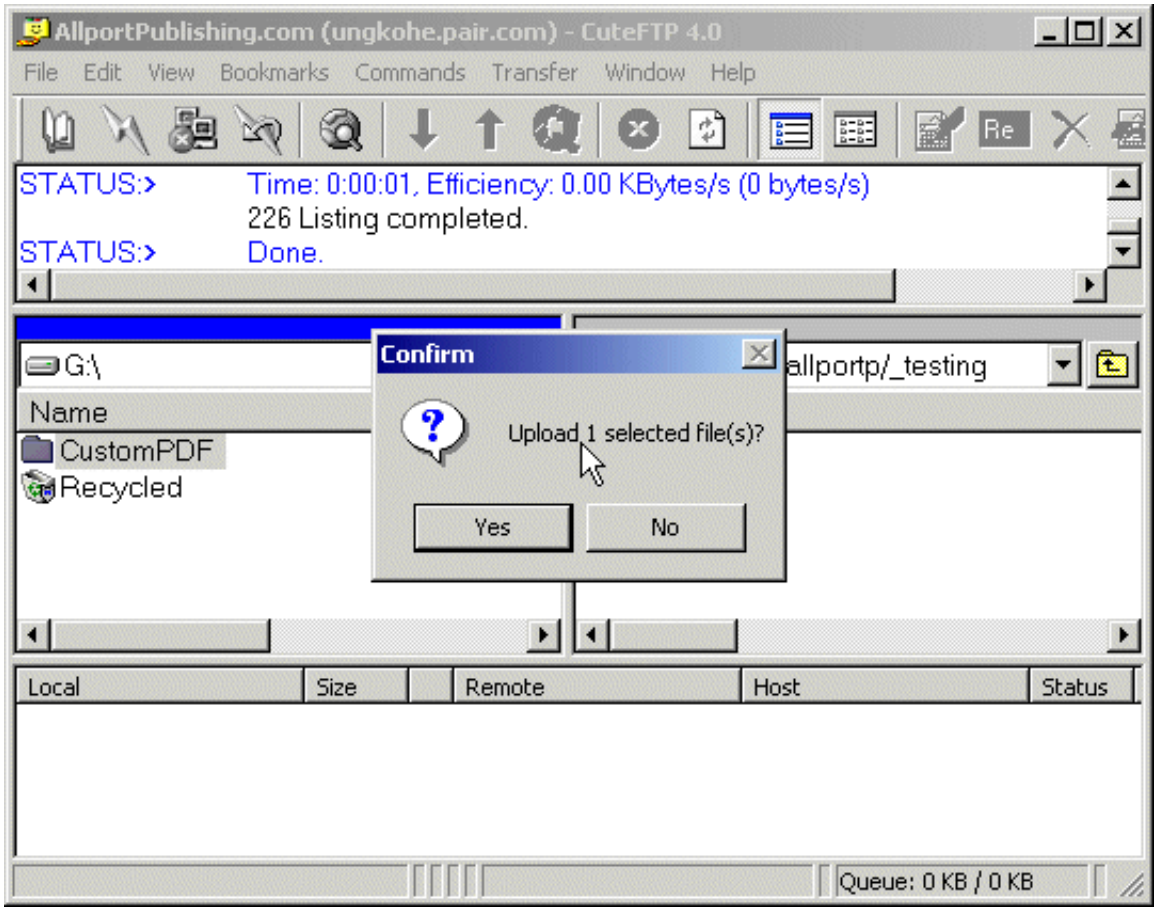
The Custom PDF Maker folder on my PC:



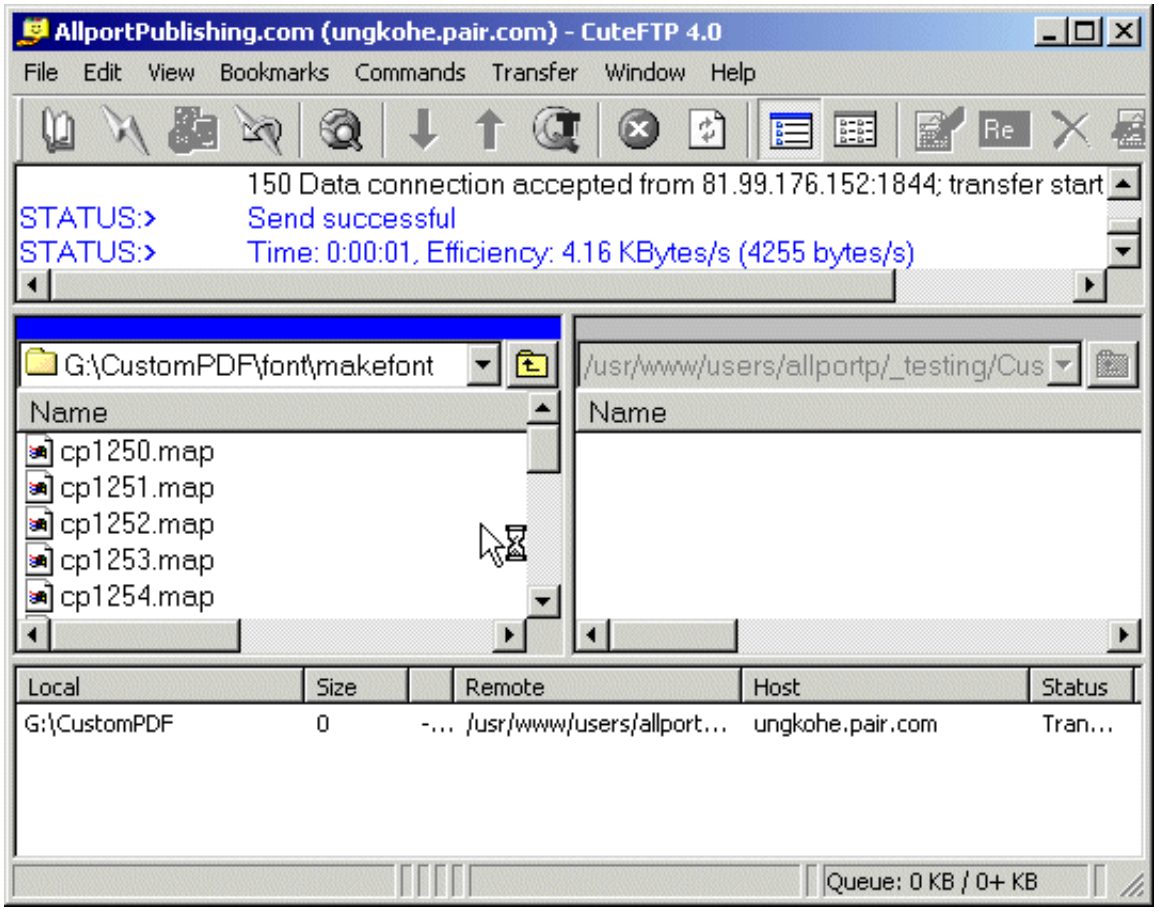
Dragging & dropping the folder onto my server:



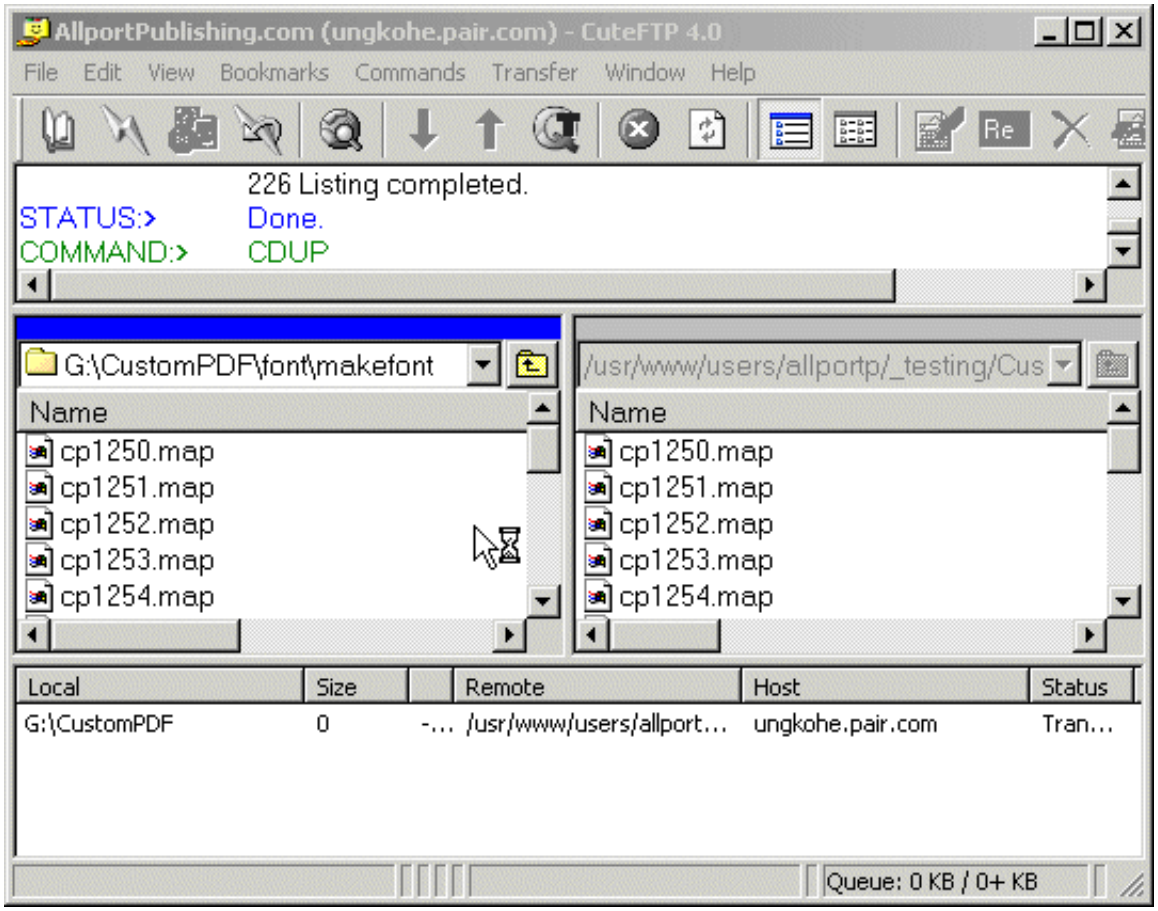
Confirming the upload:



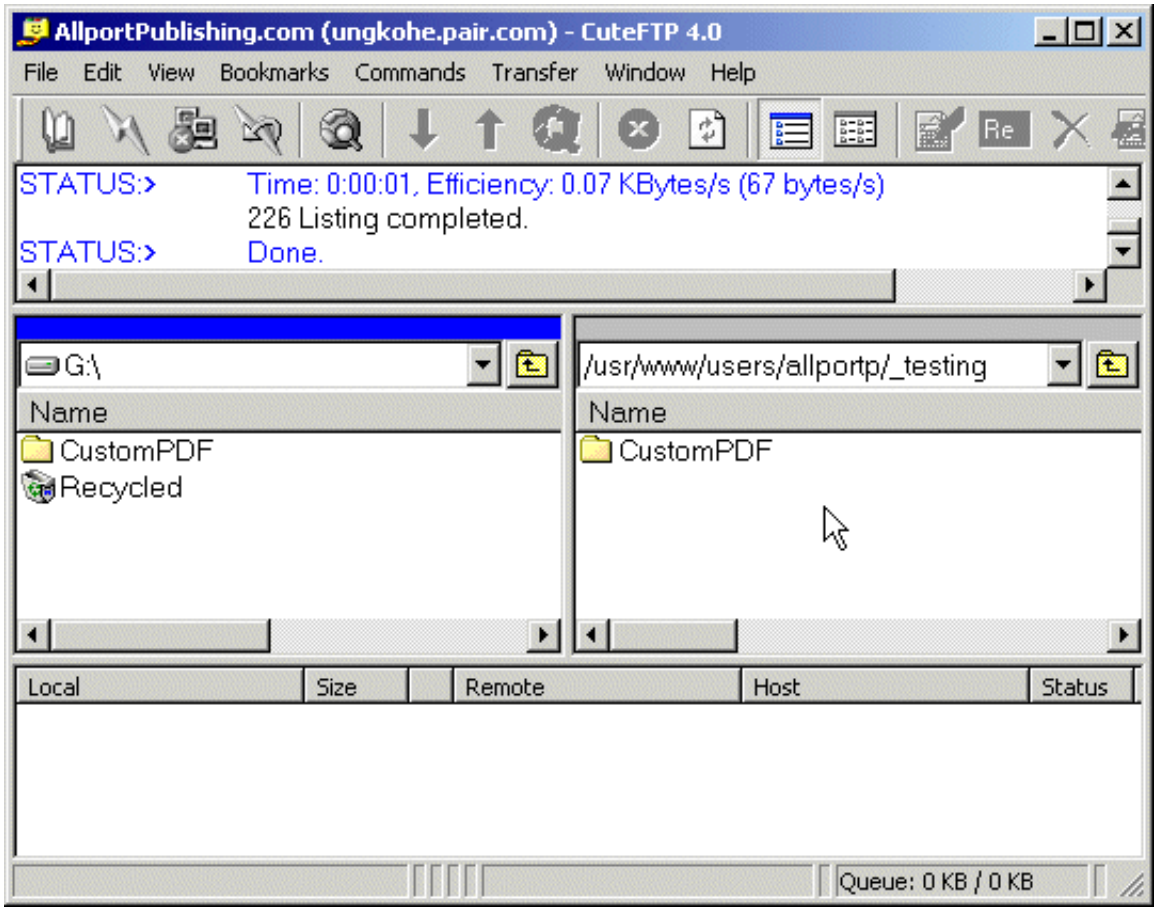
The files are uploading:



The files continue to upload:



The folder (and the files it contains) have been successfully uploaded:



In this example, I have installed the script to the following folder:

http://www.allportpublishing.com/_testing

So to use the script I would use the following address:

http://www.allportpublishing.com/_testing/CustomPDF/index.php

Some Further Notes

If you wish, you can change the "CustomPDF" folder to any folder name you wish. The script will still work fine.

You can even get rid of the "CustomPDF" folder if you like and simply have the file index.php as the root of your domain if you wish.

For security of your source (HTML file that gets converted to PDF) files, it is recommended you install the script to a separate folder for each PDF you wish to create. For example, for your first PDF upload the script here:

http://www.allportpublishing.com/CustomPDF/6198765165745

For your second PDF upload the script here:

http://www.allportpublishing.com/CustomPDF/984621654654654

I recommend the use of random numbers in this way so that people can not just guess where your files are. This is especially important if people are paying you for customizations, since if your source address is easy to guess it can take revenue out of your pocket by people stealing it.
